Raven

Before Raven came, the earth was dark and cold. When he saw people living without shadows, he began a search for light. He finds it at the house of Sky Chief, who does not want to share it. Raven changes himself into a pine needle and floats down into the water that Sky Chief's daughter is drinking. In her stomach, he turns into a baby, to Sky Chief's delight. When the baby is born, he asks for, and receives the shiny ball in the box, he turns back into Raven and flies into the sky, and letting the light out all over the world.

Find your light with the Raven.

Eye Popping to Jaw Dropping

With 1600 ANSI lumens of goodness, you can easily hook the RAVEN directly into your XBOX, and your friends will watch in jealousy while you play in on your 6-foot screen, in standard OR split screen presentation! With the RAVEN, you can even be more than 2 feet away from the T.V. without squinting or noticing major pixilation. HOW COOL!

The RAVEN is not only HDTV ready, it's also 4:3 OR 16:9 compatible giving you the option to play your games in a widescreen format without shrinking your screen like your TV would. It also comes with a 2000:1 Contrast Ratio and DLPT™ technology that ensures you'll see every detail of your enemy. While the other team is still wandering around oblivious to your location, you'll be busy focusing your scope and taking them out with your sniper rifle. We've also included a 20 foot XBOX-to-Projector cable, making it easy to place your console most anywhere.

Not to mention the fact that at 4.5 lbs. you can pretty much pack the RAVEN up and take it anywhere you need to. Take it to Hawaii, to Europe, or to your friends' house. It really doesn't matter; it's as portable as your XBOX console.

Here's another tip. Girlfriend annoyed at the marathon game playing? We thought so. All you have to do is take the game out (we know it's hard) and put in a movie of her choice. Nuke some pop-corn, sit back, relax...and hope she didn't choose Steel Magnolias as the movie.

Go to www.xbox.boxlight.com to pre-order your RAVEN today, and learn about your chance to win an all expense paid trip for two to the 2005 E3 Conference in Los Angeles, CA.
